

ARCHIVES
Archway is an online finding aid to New Zealand government archives. It contains descriptions of over 6 million records that have been transferred from Government agencies to Archives New Zealand offices in either Auckland, Christchurch, Dunedin or Wellington. Online records include WWI personnel records and Police Gazettes.	www.archway.archives.govt.nz
The Community Archive was previously known as the National Register of Archives and Manuscripts (NRAM), and is New Zealand's hub for archival collections. Contributors range from individuals and small local organisations through to large institutions with nationally-significant collections. This site has descriptions and listings of archival holdings.	http://thecommunityarchive.org.nz/

PUBLICATIONS
The Early New Zealand Books Collection developed by the University of Auckland Libraries and Learning Services. It aims to provide a complete online full-text and keyword-searchable corpus of books about NZ which were published in the first two-thirds of the 19th century. Memoirs and collections of letters and journals from the period which were published later are also included. Accounts by early travellers provide information about traditional Maori society and culture as well as early European settlement. In some cases selected chapters have been digitised where the remainder of the content is not relevant to NZ. Illustrations and maps in books have also been digitised, with higher resolution versions available by clicking on the images in the text.	http://www.enzb.auckland.ac.nz/
